Triton College's School of Continuing Education Partnered with Dohrn Insurance Training, Inc., for New Insurance Certification

RIVER GROVE – Triton College's School of Continuing Education is encouraging prospective students interested in the field of insurance to pursue an insurance licensing certification which equips them with the ability to sell different areas of insurance, including accident and health, property and casualty. The certification is made possible through the college's new partnership with Dohrn Insurance Training, Inc.

"This certification pairs nicely with our other vocational certifications," added Dr. Bianca Sola-Perkins, dean of Continuing Education at Triton College.

The certification course is offered in person and online, and ongoing open enrollment throughout the semester. Textbooks are provided in PDF form with supplemental study guides from Dohrn SimX, an online prelicensing simulating exam database.

To receive the certification, students must complete the 20-hour prelicensing course. Of the 20 hours, 7.5 hours of them must be obtained through classroom instruction, which is online, offered live and available via webinar.

Students will complete their prelicensing course by first attending a class online through Dohrn and then by passing their nonsupervised exam course final, which can be done by using Dohrn SimX.

"Dohrn Insurance is a hidden gem in the community," said Katie Rullo, associate dean of Continuing Education at Triton College. "Doug Dohrn is also a staple in the insurance industry. This is a great addition to the real estate package we have offered at the college."

"I think our partnership is a terrific idea because it exposes residents to courses that can easily relate to their own lives," said Doug Dohrn. "Insurance, which is risk transfer, allows society to function even when the unexpected tragedy of loss of life, health, property and liability occurs. Insurance allows individuals and businesses to recover from what would otherwise have been devastating financial losses."

Sola-Perkins added that with the ongoing enrollment, interested students have more opportunities to join the program.

“We hope that by taking our prelicensing courses, students will become better insurance consumers, as well entering a new career field of marketing insurance products,” said Dohrn.
